THE ESCAPE

LIVING SCULPTURE

Three rooms carved into the cliffs of Santorini form the basis of Vora Villas, a micro hotel in the village of Imerovigli, Greece, hidden away from the crowds. The private rooms, suspended high above the sea, overlook stunning scenery of the Aegean Sea that surrounds the address. Each villa notes inspiration from the volcanic environment, blending minimalistic Cycladic design with custom-made furniture and a soothing, natural colour palette. A true testament to the owner, Santorini native Yannis Bellonias, and Athens-based design and architecture firm, K-Studio's dedication to the design, every element has been hand-built over a period of four years. White cement and dark stone meet to create a space that evokes the feeling of living in a sculpture perched between the sky and sea, full of drama. voravillas.com

COASTAL CALM

Sprawled over 300-hectares of beachfront and coastal forest on Benguerra Island, Mozambique, Kisawa Sanctuary is a cultural celebration and environmental haven. The bungalows are tucked within 12 residences – some cove-side and others sheltering in the dunes by the ocean. The design has been mastered by boutique in-house studio NJF Design, with a purpose of protecting the surrounding nature and blending the local landscape with the interiors. Bespoke furniture, art, ceramics and antiques sourced across Africa adorn the space, in an ode to support local craftsmanship. Collected clay water pots made by the Nupe tribe in Nigeria and chairs hand-carved by the Makonde people in Tanzania are complemented with brass bedside lamps, marble tables and chairs crafted from jambire and sambiri wood by local artisans.
